Product Information

Spread warrants are characterized by a leverage effect, resulting in a corresponding profit and loss potential. At expiration, a Spread Warrant entitles the holder to retain its intrinsic value. Unlike conventional warrants, this and the associated profit potential is limited by a spread consisting of an Upper and a Lower Strike Price. The highest possible payout – taking into account the Ratio - is achieved if the closing price of the Underlying is at or above the Upper Strike Price in the case of Call Spread Warrants and at or below the Lower Strike Price in the case of Put Spread Warrants. With Call Spread Warrants, investors can profit from rising prices in the Underlying, and with Put Spread Warrants from falling prices in the Underlying. Call Spread Warrants expire worthless if the Relevant Valuation Price of the Underlying is equal to or lower than the Lower Strike Price, whereas Put Spread Warrants expire worthless if the Relevant Valuation Price of the Underlying is equal to or higher than the Upper Strike Price.

Prospects of Profit and Losses

This Put-Spread Warrant ("Product") enables the holder to benefit from a transaction leveraged by a negative performance of the Underlying. However, the profit is limited by the Lower Strike Price, so that the investor can only profit from falling prices of the Underlying up to this price threshold. The highest possible payout of the Product is achieved when the Relevant Valuation Price of the Underlying is below its Lower Strike Price. A possible profit of the Product consists of the positive difference between the achieved sale or redemption price and the paid issue price or purchase price. This Product does not generate any current income. The value of the Product during its lifetime is significantly influenced by the price development of the Underlying and its volatility. The Product expires worthless if the market value of the Underlying is at or above its Upper Strike Price at the Expiry Date. When investing in such risky products, the investor should be aware that he will lose his entire capital investment under this scenario.

Significant Risks for Investors

Currency risks

If the Underlying or Underlyings is/are denominated in a currency other than the product's Reference Currency, investors should bear in mind that this may involve risks due to fluctuating exchange rates and that the risk of loss does not only depend on the performance of the Underlying(s) but also on any unfavourable performance of the other currency or currencies. This does not apply for currency-hedged products (quanto structure).

Market risks

The general market performance of securities is dependent in particular on the development of the capital markets which, for their part, are influenced by the general global economic situation as well as by the economic and political framework conditions in the respective countries (so-called market risk). Changes to market prices such as interest rates, commodity prices or corresponding volatilities may have a negative effect on the valuation of the Underlying(s) or the Structured Product.

Disruption risks

There is also the risk of market disruptions (such as trading or stock market interruptions or discontinuation of trading) or other unforeseeable occurrences concerning the respective Underlyings and/or their stock exchanges or markets taking place during the term or upon maturity of the Structured Products. Such occurrences can have an effect on the time of redemption and/or on the value of the Structured Products.

In the event of trading restrictions, sanctions and similar occurrences, the Issuer is entitled, for the purpose of calculating the value of the Structured Product, to include at its own discretion the Underlying instruments at their most recently traded price, at a fair value to be established at its sole discretion or indeed as worthless, and/or additionally to suspend pricing in the Structured Product or liquidate the Structured Product prematurely.

Secondary market risks

Under normal market conditions, the Issuer or the Lead Manager intend to post bid- and ask-prices on a regular basis. However, neither the Issuer nor the Lead Manager is under any obligation with respect to investors to provide such bid- and ask-prices for specific order or securities volumes, and there is no guarantee of a specific liquidity or of a specific spread (i.e. the difference between bid- and ask-prices), for which reason investors cannot rely on being able to purchase or sell the Structured Products on a specific date or at a specific price.

Issuer risk

The value of Structured Products may depend not only on the performance of the Underlying(s), but also on the creditworthiness of the Issuer, which may change during the term of the Structured Product. The investor is exposed to the risk of default of the Issuer. For further information on the rating of Bank Vontobel AG, please see the Issuance Program.

Risks relating to potential conflicts of interest

There may be conflicts of interest at the Vontobel Group companies that could have a negative impact on the value of the Structured Products. For example, Vontobel Group companies may enter into or participate in trading and hedging transactions relating to the Underlying. They may also perform other functions relating to the Structured Products (e.g. as Calculation Agent, Index Sponsor and/or Market Maker) which enable them to determine the composition of the Underlying or calculate its value. Vontobel Group companies may also receive non-public information relating to the Underlying. It should also be noted that the payment of distribution fees and other commissions to financial intermediaries could result in conflicts of interest to the detriment of the investor, as this could create an incentive for the financial intermediary to distribute products with a higher commission preferentially to its clients. As market maker, Vontobel Group companies can determine the price of Structured Products themselves to a large extent and determine it on the basis of various factors and earnings considerations.

Please also note the further, detailed description of potential conflicts of interest and their impact on the value of the Structured Products as contained in the Issuance Program.

For the purposes of the provision above, the expression an "offer of securities to the public" in relation to any securities in any Member State means the communication in any form and by means of sufficient information on the terms of the offer and the securities to be offered so as to enable an investor to decide to purchase or subscribe for the securities, and the expression "Prospectus Regulation" means Regulation (EU) 2017/1129, and includes any relevant implementing measure in the relevant Member State.
