I. Product Description

Warrant ⁽²⁾	Leverage Products	Call Warrants	2100 ⁽³⁾

A Call Warrant with physical settlement allows the holder thereof to benefit, with leverage, from an increase in the value of the Underlying. The number of Warrants specified in the Ratio grants the investor the right to purchase upon exercise the number of Underlying(s) specified in the Ratio from the Issuer for an amount in cash equal to the Exercise Price with delivery on the Settlement Date. Therefore, if the value of the Underlying is above the Exercise Price upon exercise, the investor will benefit, with leverage, from an increase in the value of the Underlying because the investor will be able to purchase the Underlying at the lower Exercise Price. Alternatively, if the Warrants have not previously been exercised and the value of the Underlying is at or below the Exercise Price upon expiration, investors will suffer a total loss of their investment.

Swiss Taxation

The following statements and discussions of certain Swiss tax considerations relevant to the purchase, ownership and disposition of the Warrants are of a general nature only and do not address all potential tax consequences of an investment in the Warrant under Swiss law. This summary is based on treaties, laws, regulations, rulings and decisions currently in effect, all of which are subject to change. It does not address the tax consequences of the Warrants in any jurisdiction other than Switzerland.

Tax treatment depends on the individual tax situation of each investor and may be subject to change.

Potential investors will, therefore, need to consult their own tax advisors to determine the special tax consequences of the purchase, ownership and sale or other disposition of a Warrant. In particular, the precise tax treatment of a holder of a Warrant needs to be determined with reference to the applicable law and practice at the relevant time.

The investors shall be liable for all current and future taxes and duties as a consequence of an investment in Warrants. The income tax treatment as depicted below is applicable to individual persons with tax residence in Switzerland and private assets. Swiss withholding tax and Swiss stamp taxes are applicable to all investors; however, specific rules apply with respect to certain types of investors and transactions.

No Swiss withholding tax (Verrechnungssteuer).

The issuance, sale or purchase and redemption of Warrants are not subject to securities transfer stamp tax (Umsatzabgabe).

The delivery of the Underlying, if any, is subject to securities transfer stamp tax at a rate of up to 0.15% in case of Underlying(s) issued by a Swiss issuer and of up to 0.30% in case of Underlying(s) issued by a non-Swiss issuer, provided, in both cases, that a Swiss securities dealer for purposes of securities transfer stamp tax, such as a Swiss bank, is involved as a party or an intermediary in the transaction and no exemption applies. The securities transfer stamp tax is based on the Exercise Price.

The Warrants are qualified as derivatives for Swiss tax purposes; no income tax upon buying, holding, selling, and redemption of the Warrants for Swiss resident private investors.

Withholding Tax

Investors in this Warrant should note that payments under this Warrant may be subject to withholding taxes (including, but not limited to, United States withholding taxes imposed pursuant to FATCA (as defined in the Base Prospectus) or Section 871(m) of the US Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended). Any payments due under this Warrant shall be paid net of such tax. Please refer to the Terms and Conditions and the Base Prospectus for further detail. In the event that any withholding taxes are applicable to any amount payable under this Warrants, the Issuer shall not be obligated to pay additional amounts in connection with any amounts so withheld.

The Issuer expressly disclaims all liability in respect of any tax implications.

II. Profit and Loss Prospects

Profit Prospects

A Call Warrant with physical settlement allows the holder thereof to benefit, with leverage, from an increase in the value of the Underlying. The number of Warrants specified in the Ratio grants the investor the right to purchase upon exercise the number of Underlying(s) specified in the Ratio from the Issuer for an amount in cash equal to the Exercise Price with delivery on the Settlement Date. Therefore, if the value of the Underlying is above the Exercise Price upon exercise, the investor will benefit, with leverage, from an increase in the value of the Underlying because the investor will be able to purchase the Underlying at the lower Exercise Price.

Loss Prospects

Warrants involve a high degree of risk and if the Warrants have not previously been exercised and the value of the Underlying is at or below the Exercise Price upon expiration, investors will suffer a total loss of their investment.

Calculation Examples of the Settlement Amount

Performance of the Underlying on the Exercise Date:	Exercise Right:
If level of the Underlying is above the Exercise Price:	The number of Warrants specified in the Ratio grants the investor the right to purchase the Underlying at the Exercise Price, i.e. the investor will benefit, with leverage, from an increase in the value of the Underlying because the investor will be able to purchase the Underlying at the lower Exercise Price.
If level of the Underlying is at or below the Exercise Price:	If the Warrants have not previously been exercised and the value of the Underlying is at or below the Exercise Price upon expiration, investors will suffer a total loss of their investment.

This table shows exemplary redemption scenarios regarding the settlement amount as per the Settlement Date for illustrative purposes only and does not constitute a price indication for the Warrants or the Underlying. During the term of the Warrants, additional risks and other factors may influence the market value of the Warrants. As a consequence, the pricing in the secondary market may differ significantly from the above table.

III. Important Risks for Investors

Important Risks

Issuer Risk

Investors bear the Issuer risk. The Warrants' retention of value is dependent not only on the development of the value of the Underlying(s), but also on the creditworthiness of Credit Suisse AG, which may change over the term of the Warrants. Furthermore, the Issuer's ability to fulfill its obligations under the Warrants may be affected by certain other factors, including liquidity risks, market risks, credit risks, cross-border and foreign exchange risks, operational risks, legal and regulatory risks and competition risks.

The Warrants are direct, unconditional, unsecured and unsubordinated obligations of Credit Suisse AG and are not covered by any compensation or insurance scheme (such as a bank deposit protection scheme). If Credit Suisse AG were to become insolvent, claims of investors in Warrants would rank equally in right of payment with all other unsecured and unsubordinated obligations of Credit Suisse AG, except such obligations given priority by law. In such a case, investors in Warrants may suffer a loss of all or a portion of their investment therein, irrespective of any favourable development of the other value determining factors, such as the performance of the Underlying(s).

Credit Suisse AG is licensed as a bank pursuant to the Swiss Federal Act on Banks and Saving Banks and as a security dealer pursuant to the Swiss Federal Act on Stock Exchanges and Securities Trading and is subject to supervision by the FINMA.

Product Risk

Warrants involve substantial risks and potential investors must have the knowledge and experience necessary to enable them to evaluate the risks and merits of an investment in Warrants.

Prospective investors should:

- ensure that they understand the nature of the risks posed by, and the extent of their exposure under, the Warrants;
- make all pertinent inquiries they deem necessary without relying on the Issuer or any of its affiliates or officers or employees;
- consider the suitability of the Warrants as an investment in light of their own circumstances, investment objectives, tax position and financial condition;
- consider carefully all the information set forth in the legally binding Terms and Conditions as well as all other sections of the Prospectus (including any documents incorporated by reference therein);
- consult their own legal, tax, accounting, financial and other professional advisors to assist them determining the suitability of Warrants for them as an investment.

Leveraged Products

Warrants are leveraged products, which means that any change in the value of the Underlying may result in a disproportionate change in the market value of (and expected return on) the relevant Warrant (e.g., the formula used to determine amounts payable under Warrants upon redemption contains a multiplier or leverage factor). As a result, Warrants involve disproportionate loss exposure if the value of the Underlying develops unfavourably. Potential investors in Warrants should realise that the greater the multiplier or leverage factor of a Warrant, the greater the loss exposure involved.

Risk of Total Loss

Warrants involve a high degree of risk, and prospective investors in Warrants should recognise that Warrants may under certain circumstances have a redemption value of zero. Prospective investors in Warrants should therefore be prepared to sustain a partial or total loss of the amount of their investment therein.

Warrants are unsecured obligations

Warrants are direct, unconditional, unsecured and unsubordinated obligations of Credit Suisse AG and are not covered by any compensation or insurance scheme (such as a bank deposit protection scheme). If Credit Suisse AG were to become insolvent, claims of investors in Warrants would rank equally in right of payment with all other unsecured and unsubordinated obligations of Credit Suisse AG, except such obligations given priority by law. In such a case, investors in Warrants may suffer a loss of all or a portion of their investment therein, irrespective of any favourable development of the other value determining factors, such as the performance of the Underlying.

Unpredictable Market Value of the Warrants

The market value of, and expected return on, Warrants may be influenced by a number of factors, some or all of which may be unpredictable (and which may offset or magnify each other), such as (i) supply and demand for Warrants, (ii) the value and volatility of the Underlying, (iii) economic, financial, political and regulatory or judicial events that affect Credit Suisse AG, the Underlying or financial markets generally, (iv) interest and yield rates in the market generally, (v) the time remaining until the Final Redemption Date, (vi) the difference between the level of the Underlying and the relevant threshold, (vii) Credit Suisse AG's creditworthiness, and (viii) dividend payments on the components of the Underlying, if any.

Trading Market for Warrants

The trading market for Warrants may be limited, or may never develop at all, which may adversely impact the market value of such Warrants or the ability of a holder thereof to sell such Warrants.

Exposure to the Performance of the Underlying

Warrants represent an investment linked to the performance of the Underlying and potential investors should note that any amount payable, or other benefit to be received, under Warrants will depend upon the performance of the Underlying. Potential investors in Warrants should be familiar with the behaviour of the Underlying and thoroughly understand how the performance of the Underlying may affect payments (or any other benefit to be received) under, or the market value of, Warrants. The past performance of the Underlying is not indicative of future performance. The market value of a Warrant may be adversely affected by postponement or alternative provisions for the valuation of the level of the Underlying.

Exchange Rate Risks

An investor in Warrants may be exposed to exchange rate related risks as the settlement currency or the issue currency for the Warrants or the currency in which the Underlying(s) are denominated may be different from the currency of the home jurisdiction of the investor in such Warrants. Fluctuations in exchange rates may adversely affect the market value of and return on the Warrants.

Broad Discretionary Authority of the Calculation Agent

The Calculation Agent has broad discretionary authority to make various determinations and adjustments under Warrants, any of which may have an adverse effect on the market value thereof or amounts payable or other benefits to be received thereunder. Any such discretion exercised by, or any calculation made by, the Calculation Agent (in the absence of manifest error) shall be binding on the Issuer and all holders of the Warrants.

Further Product Specific Risks

In particular, in case of Call Warrants, if the Warrants have not previously been exercised and the value of the Underlying is at or below the Exercise Price upon expiration, investors will suffer a total loss of their investment.

This risk disclosure notice cannot disclose all the risks. Therefore, potential investors in Warrants should consult the latest version of the 'Risks Involved in Trading Financial Instruments' risk disclosure brochure (the 'Risk Disclosure Brochure') and the Prospectus of which the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants form a part.

In connection with this Warrant, the Issuer and/or its affiliates may pay to third parties, including affiliates, remunerations (distribution fee) that may be factored into the terms of this Warrant. The Issuer and/or its affiliates may also offer such remunerations to third parties in the form of a discount on the price of the product. Receipt or potential receipt of such remunerations may lead to a conflict of interests. Internal revenue allocation may lead to a similar effect. Investors in the Warrant may request further information from their bank/relationship manager.

Where not explicitly otherwise stated, the Issuer has no duty to invest in the Underlying(s) and an investor in Warrants has no recourse to the Underlying(s) or to any return thereon. The issue price of the Warrants will reflect the customary fees and costs charged on the level of the Underlying(s). Certain built-in costs are likely to adversely affect the value of the Warrants.

The Warrants are complex structured financial instruments and involve a high degree of risk. They are intended only for investors who understand and are capable of assuming all risks involved. Before entering into any transaction involving the Warrants, a potential investor should determine if the Warrants suit his or her particular circumstance and should independently assess (with his or her professional advisors) the specific risks (maximum loss, currency risks, etc.) and the legal, regulatory, credit, tax and accounting consequences. The Issuer makes no representation as to the suitability or appropriateness of the Warrants for any particular potential investor or as to the future performance of the Warrants. This document does not replace a personal conversation between a potential investor and his or her relationship manager and/or professional advisor (e.g. legal, tax or accounting advisor), which is recommended by the Issuer before any investment decision.
